Another by-election needed

The Town of Elk Point is trying once again to fill the vacant chair at their council table.

An attempt earlier this spring to find nominations for the vacant position brought no response, and required Town Manager Curt Svendsen to approach the Minister of Municipal Affairs for advice. He was told that the Town had no option but to try again. Council has set Wednesday, July 2 as nomination day for a by-election on Monday, July 21.

Streets, especially those in the industrial park, figured prominently on Council's June 9 agenda. A resolution to approve an application for a street improvement grant for the development of 45th Street was passed. Although the street may not be developed this year, pending sale of sufficient lots, the grant application will be in by the June 30 deadline.

Other streets in that area will be getting attention as well. Two local oil companies, Pan Canadian Petroleum and ELAN, have offered to donate large quantities of oilfield byproduct which can be used to surface these streets. The Town agreed to pay for hauling and installation of the material. Some of this may also be used to pave the parking lot at the A. G. Ross Arena.

In order to help keep the community's streets in good condition, Council agreed that a 50% weight restriction be placed on all streets west of Highway 41 and north of 50th Avenue each spring for a period to be determined by the Town. Adding a street damage clause into development permits was another suggestion put forward to Council.

Speed limits on one of these streets also came to Council's attention. The area of 50th Street adjacent to the Elk Point Elementary School grounds will become a playground zone, rather than just a school zone, to protect children using the school ground facilities after school hours and on weekends.

Speeding on the highway is an ongoing problem, and it was suggested to invite the RCMP representative to attend the next meeting.

Water main development, paving, curb and gutter installation for 49th Street was deferred to the Town's 1998 budget.

A final matter involving streets was the granting of permission for the annual Canada Day Parade, which will fill sidewalks along the route with cheering spectators on Tuesday, July 1.

Other business coming before Council's June meeting included the presentation of a five year service award to Town Manager Curt Svendsen. Unfortunately, it will be the final gift of this nature for Svendsen, who is retiring at the end of this month and will be leaving the community. Council has advertised for a

Community prayer breakfast focuses on family values

Good music, good food and a guest speaker focusing on the change in families and their values over the years added up to a successful Community Prayer Breakfast, which was hosted by the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce last Saturday in the spacious Seniors Recreation Centre, use of which was graciously donated by the Pioneer Circle.

Sherry Oszust offered grace to start off the morning. After everyone had enjoyed a bountiful buffet meal, they were set to enjoy the music of Crystal River, a family gospel music group consisting of Cliff Quist, his father Sid, his daughters Jill and Leslie and son Shane, with wife Sharon handling the sound system and his mother offering moral support. Margaret Modin introduced the Quists, who also entertained at the Premier's Prayer Breakfast last month.

The family moved to Elk Point last year and Cliff says they have made good friends and enjoyed good fellowship so far in the community.

Sid Holthe offered a prayer of thanks for the guidance and sustenance offered to this community's pioneers, and the courage and inspiration which led them to develop the community and its institutions and places of business. "Following generations have built upon the labors and ambitions of those who preceded... and the fruits of their labor and this land have been bountiful." Holthe asked for continuing guidance at this crossroads in our existence, and in "our continuing search for improvement and betterment for people of all ages."

Guest speaker, Dr. Dorothy Ryan was introduced by Jim MacLellan, who has been her student at Blue Quills College this past year. Dr. Ryan is a Lloydminster psychologist and in addition to a private practice there, also teaches at Lakeland College.

Dr. Ryan discussed the many changes in families since the 1950s, noting that spouses often show less self discipline and less commitment than their counterparts of forty years ago, when "we didn't have discussions on equality," and when mothers were the primary nurturers. She noted that there is also a movement away from spending time as a family.

The 1950s norm of a family with two parents, two or three children and one income "is going the way of the dinosaur," Dr. Ryan said. Today, many families are headed by just one parent, or may involve step-parents, step-siblings or same-sex parents. If there are two parents, they are probably both working. "This has a tremendous effect on our children."

Reports offering statistics on increasing divorce and shrinking birth rates also showed some positives, Dr. Ryan said. "Most Canadians regard the family as the most important part of their lives, and 60 percent were willing to jeopardize career advancement for their new manager and have interviewed several applicants.

Keeping the community looking good throughout the summer is one of the duties of the Public Works department. Council agreed that the Town would continue to maintain the grounds at the A. G. Ross Arena, and public works priorities for mowing of various areas around town will be reviewed.

Elk Point Public Library will help to beautify the town in the future, since Council gave approval to the creation of a flower garden along the north side of the library. The work is being done by the library staff and Friends of the Library in celebration of the library's 50th anniversary this year.

Council heard that Elk Point's dog population is still growing, to the extent where Svendsen had to order additional dog licence tags. Fines are also increasing, and the Town will look into contracting with a kennel to store dogs caught by the bylaw enforcement officer. It was also noted that the current bylaw officer is resigning in the near future and this position will be advertised.

Council voted to continue their donation toward F. G. Miller High School's Crusade Above the Limit program, and also to reimburse F. G. Miller's French students their rental fee for the recreation park booth which they ran during the SPAA ball tournaments last month.

People need people -- and people respond

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Many stories can be told of how acts of kindness can and have made a difference in a person's life. There is a story told in A Fourth Course of Chicken Soup For The Soul that I liked. It was titled: "The Code of the Road." I will highlight the message.

There was a young child who was her "Daddy's little girl." But her dad was a truck driver who spent most of his life on the road. He was gone in the morning before she got up and home at night after she was in bed. By the time she was old enough to stay up past 9 p.m., she was a teenager. Now they were strangers. It took her years to understand that he had no idea what to do with her...

One evening he returned from another day in the truck. He told of how that afternoon he was on the highway and saw a woman opening her trunk to take out a spare tire. He stopped, introduced himself and proceeded to take over the task of changing the blown-out tire. While he jacked up the car, the woman told him how grateful she was for his kindness. She said people's fear of crime in urban areas often dissuades local people from stopping to help one another. When the truck driver finished changing the tire and returning all of the equipment to the trunk of her car, she offered him a $20 bill for his help. He smiled at her and said, "No need. I have a wife and a daughter who just started driving, and my only hope is that if ever one of them breaks down on the side of the road, someone honest and friendly will stop and do for them what I just did for you." He said goodbye and headed back to the 18-wheeler he had left with its motor running on the shoulder of the road...

The story goes on to relate how this girl, later in life, also has a blown-out tire problem and a truck driver stops to help her. The girl tells this truck driver about her dad who did the same thing. He said: "Your daddy's a good man... he knows the code of the road."

I would like to liken this story of "People Helping People" to one example of what has taken place over the last year in our community. The Children and Family Services Working Committee has met several times. They have developed a mission statement, discussed strengths and weaknesses in our community, and they have come up with some recommendations of what our community needs to help strengthen children and their families. They believe that sometimes children and families need help.

Just as the truck driver lives and practices the "Code of the Road," I am so thankful that we have people who gave of their time to attend and participate in these meetings so that recommendations could be verbalized of the needs of our community.

If you were not able during the year to express your feelings and recommendations of what you feel is needed in our community to strengthen children and families, you will have an opportunity. There will be a public meeting held on Wednesday evening, June 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Elks Hall in Elk Point. Come if you can. We hope to see you there.

More long term beds to open at Parkview

Mayor Ed Buck announced Friday that word from the Lakeland Regional Health Authority Board had been received indicating that four additional long term care beds and another respite care bed will be opened in the Parkview Extended Care facility in early July.

Buck credits the efforts of a brief presented by the Town of Elk Point recently, and said "it's a start, anyway," on the increased health service he would like to see in the community.

Nutrition notes

Suffering from gout — the diet connection

By Shelley Miller-Hertes
Registered Dietician, Elk Point Health Centre

Gout is a condition resulting from excess uric acid in the blood. By following a low purine diet, you may be able to reduce the amount of uric acid in your body.

The following dietary guidelines will help you lower your intake of purine and increase your fluid intake. These changes will reduce the amount of uric acid in your body.

(1) Eat a variety of foods to obtain all the nutrients you need.

(2) Reduce portion sizes of meat, fish and poultry. Eating too much animal flesh may increase the uric acid in your body. Do not eat more than 6 oz. per day. A 3 oz. portion is approximately the size of a deck of cards.

(3) Have the following foods no more than once a month: organ meats (liver, kidney, heart, tongue, brains); anchovies, sardines, herring, scallops, mackerel; lentils, dried beans, dried peas; meat gravies; meat extracts (OXO, Marmite, Bovril, broth, bouillon); brewer's yeast; soups made with meat stock base.

(4) Drink 2 to 3 litres (8 to 12 cups) of fluid daily. Half the fluids should be water.

(5) Maintain a desirable body weight. Being overweight can result in a buildup of uric acid in your body. If you need to lose weight, do it gradually, 0.5 to 1.0 kg or 1 to 2 pounds per week. Rapid weight loss may cause an attack of gout.

(6) Limit your intake of alcohol or do not drink alcohol. Alcohol can result in a buildup of uric acid in your body.

Action for Health — community grants

Smoky Lake - Do you have a great idea that will help make your community healthier or safer, but need some funds to get started? If you do, here's some good news. A total of $100,000 in community grants is now available to residents of the Lakeland Health Region.

These funds are provided through Lakeland Regional Health Authority's health promotion project - Action for Health. Bringing people together to share ideas and work together to take action on health in their communities is what Action for Health is all about.

Application brochures will soon be available throughout the Lakeland Region at health units, health centres, public libraries, municipal offices, FCSS, mental health clinics, AADAC offices, seniors' centres, etc. Brochures will be available by mid-June, but you can start planning your project proposal now.

* Applications will be accepted from groups of three or more individuals who live in the Lakeland Health Region.

* Profit-making and government groups may NOT apply for funding but can be partners in a project.

* Grants will be made up to a maximum of $4000.

* Funding for capital expenditure is limited to $300.

* Ongoing operating costs will not be funded.

* All ideas will be considered and each group will be notified.

Deadline for applications is July 31, 1997.

Canada Day stage performance moving back outdoors

Elk Point's Canada Day celebrations are coming up in just two weeks, and the lineup includes two changes in venue from previous years. One of these is moving the afternoon stage performance back outdoors, weather permitting. The Town of Elk Point has constructed a handsome new stage which is an earth berm topped with a concrete slab, which will be low maintenance and long lasting. The other change is that the Elks Lodge is taking over operation of the Canada Day beerfest on Monday, June 30, which will be moved to the Elks Hall.

Last minute details for Canada Day were discussed at the final planning meeting for the event last week. The format includes the gospel concert on Sunday, June 29 at 7 p.m. in the Elementary School gymnasium, the beerfest at 9 p.m. June 30 and the Chamber of Commerce pancake breakfast from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Canada Day, July 1. The parade, with eight prize categories including one for the Canada Day theme, "90 Years of Elk Point Settlement," will begin assembling at 10:30 a.m. north of the arena, and will be judged at 11:30. A contingent of children on decorated bicycles, led by Popcorn the Clown, will precede the parade around the route, starting just before noon.

A craft sale, including a table with Canada Day souvenirs and 90th anniversary tee shirts, will be held in the A. G. Ross Arena from 1 to 4 p.m., and the arena concession will be open to provide food and beverages. The stage show will commence with a flag raising ceremony at 2 p.m. and will feature a variety of entertainment for the whole family.

The Canada Day committee is still hopeful that volunteers will be found to run other activities such as log sawing and nail pounding competitions. Please call Deanna at 724-3800 if you would like to be involved.

Prayer breakfast focus on family values families. Eighty percent of teens expect to be married for a lifetime."

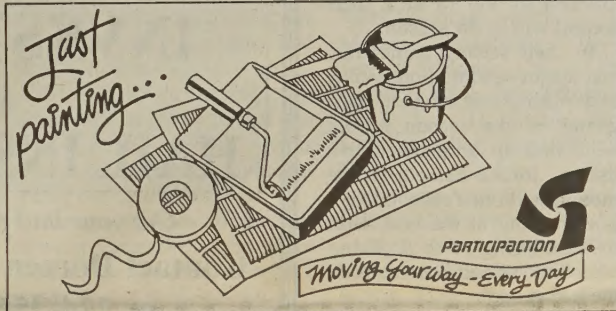

In the 1950s, schools regarded as their greatest problems such misdemeanors as chewing gum, running in the halls, talking out of turn, making noise, cutting in line, dress code violations and littering. Today these have been replaced by drug and alcohol abuse, pregnancy, rape, suicide, assault, robbery and carrying weapons. Dr. Ryan asked, "What is happening to our young people, the leaders of the future?"

Hope, she says, is in a strong investment in "the building blocks of the family." Faith in God, with strong spiritual beliefs passed down from parents and grandparents, a loving marital relationship creating a climate of trust in the home, commitment, support, enjoyment, family rituals and traditions, respect, forgiveness, communication and humor will help to build a strong family unit which will help its members to get through "the quagmire of social pressure."

In closing, Dr. Ryan quoted

Erma Bombeck, who said a family is "a strange little band of characters, struggling through life... trying to figure out the common thread that ties us together."

The morning concluded with more music from the Quist family, and a Bible reading and closing prayer by Chamber president Vicki Brooker.

Dewberry hosts their 20th annual chuckwagon race meet

WAGON MEET WINNER Ray Mitsuing of Loon Lake, SK, with his outriders Roger Moore and Darren Mitsuing, accept the Allan Bensmiller Memorial trophy from Lindsey Bates.

Sunday's performance of the 20th Annual Dewberry Chuckwagon Races started off on a celebratory note, when the world's largest functional chuckwagon pulled in to the barrels with Bruce Craig and Bruce Etherington at the reins and Bruce Goldsmith and Terry Butz on hand to outride. The horn sounded and the huge wagon made its figure eight of the barrels and headed off down the track, letting loose a whole wagon load of colorful balloons.

Faster wagons were soon on the track, competing for a total of $15,000 in prize money.

Ray Mitsuing's Conoco Equipment outfit was just 1/100 of a second off his track record time in Saturday's show and did well again Sunday to take first place, winning the Allan Bensmiller Memorial plaque as well as the Border Credit Union trophy and $100 for the fastest time of the meet, Saturday's 1:07.60.

Leo Tournier placed second overall, with Luke Tournier a close third and Grant Preece fourth.

Harold McCarthy's Clandonald Special rig was named Best Barrelling outfit for the Dewberry Data Service trophy, and Stu Napper's Reid's Welding rig was the Best Dressed Wagon for a trophy from Whiteside Petroleum.

The Best Outrider trophy from the Goldsmith Family went to Roger Moore, who also drives a wagon in addition to outriding in most of the heats.

Richard Callioux received the Hard Luck award.

After two shows, Ray Mitsuing leads the Canadian Professional Chuckwagon Association standings, with Jim Knight and Bert Croteau tied for second and third, Leo Tournier fourth and Luke Tournier fifth.

White Sox busy in a rare rainless week

By Doug Bassett
Elk Point Minor Ball

Tuesday night the midget White Sox travelled to Cold Lake for what turned out to be a pitching duel between Sox chucker Tyson Ballas and the fast ball hummer from Cold Lake. Tyson, who has a nice variety of junk ball pitches, would lose this one 3 to 2 in the bottom of the seventh. This was the third game in a row that the Sox have lost in the bottom of the seventh.

Thursday night, the four year rivalry continued when the Cardinals returned to meet the Sox on their turf. In trouble early in the game and down by five runs, knuckle ball pitcher Justin Malachowski was replaced by reliever Denny Hudy. The Sox, not wanting to give up, stated making a comeback. When the Sox came to bat in the bottom of the seventh, the score was 10-8 for Cold Lake. With a runner on second and only one out, the Sox took exception to their runner being tackled from behind by the third baseman, and quickly unloaded the dugout into the field. The Cardinals followed suit and the game was called before things got too far out of hand. No final score, but the boys will meet again in the Provincial round robin.

The year end final in Consort was moved one week to June 22 and 23, so the Sox travelled to Chipman's Farmers Day tournament. Meeting the host team, the Sox took an early lead and held on with great pitching by Tyler Warawa to win 13 to 5, their second win of the season.

In their second game they met league-leading Bonnyville, and played one of their best games of the season in the field, tied up until the fourth inning. Jordan Bassett, on the mound without a relief pitcher, powered out at the end, with the Sox losing 10 to 8. Shaun Moroziuk scored four runs in the losing battle.

Bantam boys defeated Goodfish Tuesday and Cold Lake Thursday, Bantam girls rolled over Pierceland Monday and Bonnyville on Thursday.

CRUSADERS OF THE WEEK, 1996 - 97 — Missing from photo: Rocky Pilisko, Vanessa Johnston, Jamie Tetz, Sheldon Ballas.

A look back...

Crusaders of the Week, 1996-97

By Denise Smereka
Crusader of the Week coordinator

The last week in May witnessed the final Crusaders of the Week and the gathering of 66 of F. G. Miller's finest students in the school gymnasium for the final draws and group photo. Each week, the Crusader staff met to choose two students they felt shone and were deserving of this honor. There were many more deserving students than there were weeks in the school year, and choices were sometimes difficult. These Crusaders were recognized for the effort they put into being the best they could be, both in and out of the classroom throughout the year. Some were nominated for their work at a specific time during the year, while others were recognized for their consistency throughout the year.

The Crusaders of the Week met in the gym to witness the drawing of the prizes. Mr. Hawkins, our principal, was on hand to pick the three names from the draw box. Leslie Hillebrand (who, ironically, delivered the prize to the school) was the winner of the grand prize of a black bean bag chair. Carrie Baumgardner and Julie Young were the winners of $20 gift certificates from Kelly's Closet. All the prizes were sponsored by the F. G. Miller Students' Union and handed out by president Loren Kozicky.

A very special thanks to Hetty Gottlieb, owner/operator of the Subways in St. Paul and Bonnyville for her more than generous donation of 64 Subway free tickets for 6" subs. It was a very pleasant (and popular) surprise for the 62 remaining Crusaders of the Week. The two final tickets are being held for the upcoming Crusade Above the Limit draw which will occur on June 18 at 1:00 p.m. in the gym.

Thanks, Hetty, for going out of your way to drop off the prizes at the school — your generosity is greatly appreciated by the Crusaders.

Congratulations to the following Crusaders who were honored in the 1996/97 school year:

Honorable mention: Jordan Bassett, Cory Henderson, Laura Oszust, Billy Turner, Tamara Allen.

Special thanks to Mrs. Cheri Lindquist for purchasing and handing out the weekly prizes as well as consistently handing out the information sheets each week, Mr. Lawrence Pidluzny who transferred the photos into Ms. Smereka's login each week and the staff for their many nominations. Your help made this year's Crusader of the week program run smoothly and successfully.

Frog Lake School hosts mini-powwow

Frog Lake Napewaew School hosted visitors from Kehewin, Onion Lake and Joseph Bighead schools at their annual mini-powwow last Wednesday, for a day packed with dancing, drumming and hand games.

The day began with a grand entry led by elders William Singer and Baptiste Quinney, followed by a long line of students from all four schools in the costumes of grass, jingle, fancy and traditional dancers. Following an invocation by Elder Singer, words of welcome from Frog Lake principal Laverne Wilson and the introduction of tribal royalty, five drum groups took turns providing the accompaniment for intertribal dancing.

Dance competitions were held for each age group of students, with the winners as follows: Tiny Tots — 1. Terri Lewis, Onion Lake; 2. Jodette Bull, Kehewin; 3. Chelsey Dillon, OL. Boys, Grade 1-3 — 1. Bryan Oppissinow, OL; 2. Zane Wade, Frog Lake; 3. Joey Benjamin, OL. Girls, Grade 1-3 — 1. Chelsa Bull, K; 2. Maggie Okanee, FL; 3. Andrea Pahtayken, OL. Boys, Grades 4

-6 — 1. Derrick Stanley, K; 2. Tyrone Turner, OL; 3. Dezi Chocan, OL. Girls, Grades 4-6 — 1. Louanne Lewis, OL; 2. Jody Gadwa, K; 3. Angeline Gadwa, K. Girls, Grades 7-9 — 1. Elissa Gadwa, K; 2. Monica Bear, OL; 3. Carolyn Singer, Joseph Bighead. Girls, Grades 10-12 — 1. Candace Gadwa, K; 2. Cindy Gadwa, K; Kristyn Watchmaker, K.

Hand games — Teddy Quinney's Frog Lake team were the A Side champions, with Marcus Pahtayken of Onion Lake second, while Beau Youngchief and team from Kehewin won the B Side over DD Wapass.

HAND GAMES are a traditional native pursuit which is part of almost every powwow, and this was no exception.

ONION LAKE PRINCESS -- adorned in traditional robes of soft white buckskin with long, long fringe and beads.

ELDER WILLIAM SINGER carries the eagle staff in the Grand Entry of dancers at the mini powwow.

THE BEAT GOES ON - for drum groups accompanying the inter-tribal dancers with traditional rhythms and chants.

Wellness centre now open at Frog Lake

An open house celebrating the opening of the new Frog Lake Wellness Centre is being held Monday through Friday until June 20, to introduce a very new concept for First Nations and Aboriginal peoples.

The centre, located approximately 16 km north of the Frog Lake General Store on Highway 897 at the former location of the after-care centre, is the only wellness centre operating in a First Nations community. Mindful of the wide variety of needs that must be met, the staff offers physiotherapy, occupational therapy, recreation and fitness, nutrition and diet counselling, mental health counselling, health education, beauty and grooming, woodworking and more. The teachings and wisdom of the elders are incorporated into these contemporary surroundings.

A tour of the facility shows off a very well equipped fitness room and a small gymnasium for sports such as floor hockey and volleyball, or for social gatherings. A recreational director is on duty and will be planning a series of activities for all ages. There is a craft and sewing room with five sewing machines, and a kitchen where nutrition area where young mothers can learn to stretch their food dollars and diabetics can learn more about appropriate foods for their condition. There is also going to be a small beauty parlor where both men and women can get hair cuts and grooming advice.

A physiotherapy area will be staffed with a certified physiotherapist two days a week.

Although the centre is basically a day use facility, there are two residences nearby where clients who are not able to travel to the centre for the programs can be accommodated if necessary.

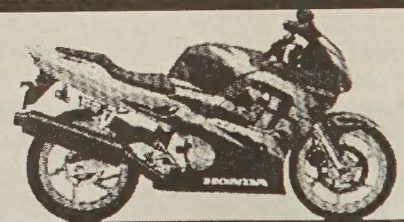

All this is located in a quiet, attractive setting overlooking the beautiful reaches of Frog Lake, with friendly and knowledgeable staff members on duty.

For more information, contact Karen Abraham, Executive Director, or Dora Courteoreille, Program Coordinator at 943-2715.

Local ranchers big on bison

Bison ranching is alive and well in the Elk Point and St. Paul areas. It's easy to see that when you drive down the Armistice Road toward Elk Point. Sizeable herds of the noble creatures which once roamed the North American plains browse peacefully on the knee-high grass covering the rolling, hilly terrain.

Two of the bison ranchers in this area, Andrew Boddy and Richard Ference, proudly survey their herd of close to five hundred bison cows and bulls and about 250 new calves, as they talk about an upcoming convention in Vermilion which they hope will help to promote the raising of bison. Boddy feels there is a "really good developing industry out there. I think it's here to stay." Alberta is currently home to almost 20,000 of Canada's 35,000 bison, a figure which the Canadian Bison Association feels could increase to 100,000 by the turn of the century.

The Bison Expo held last year in St. Paul was a "resounding success," and has attracted more people to the industry, Boddy says. He feels the Alberta Bison Association Convention, June 27 through 29 at Lakeland College in Vermilion will help to educate both those looking for a way to diversify their farms and those just wanting to find out more about these fascinating animals. Seven local families are on the list of convention committee members, and according to Boddy, have been instrumental in planning the event.

Sessions on the niche role bison plays in the world's red meat industry, nutrition, feeding, reproduction and management, advertising and marketing, grading and farm tours are all part of the conference, as are meals featuring bison on the menu. Retired award-winning Calgary chef Fred Zimmerman will be on hand for a special session on cooking bison.

And bison is great on the plate, both taste and nutrition-wise. Boddy says bison producers are "feeding the demand for low cholesterol meat, and our industry is based on meat sales." Bison meat has approximately two grams of fat per 100 gram portion, as compared to six grams for beef and five for pork, while all three meats have an equal protein content.

Bison are also easy to raise, and eat about two thirds as much as beef cows. Ference pointed out that a sleek group of herd bulls were fed chopped oat straw all last winter, and wintered very well. Bison will dig through snow in the pasture during the winter, and do not require shelter. They are not labor intensive, and Ference says he can handle the whole herd on his own, without problem. The mothers calve unassisted and have plenty of milk for their offspring. One six-year-old cow surprised Boddy and Ference with twin heifer calves this spring, an event which happens approximately once in 2000 births. The two weighed about 35 pounds each at birth and have nearly doubled that at one month of age. "They're quite a bonus."

Boddy and Ference have a group of woods bison bulls in addition to their plains bison herd. The woods bison have smaller heads, thinner necks and a more pronounced hump than their plains-dwelling cousins, and the ranchers plan to try some crossbreeding of the two varieties. They are also breeding toward darker colored bison. Boddy says that buyers are inclined to pay a higher dollar for a darker animal, and they are trying to meet this demand. Both diet and genetics play a role in the color of the animals.

The decision to raise bison doesn't mean giving up raising beef, Boddy says. "The two can go hand in hand. A beef farmer, with his veterinary and handling knowledge, can easily look after bison as well as beef. They can enhance the beef industry."

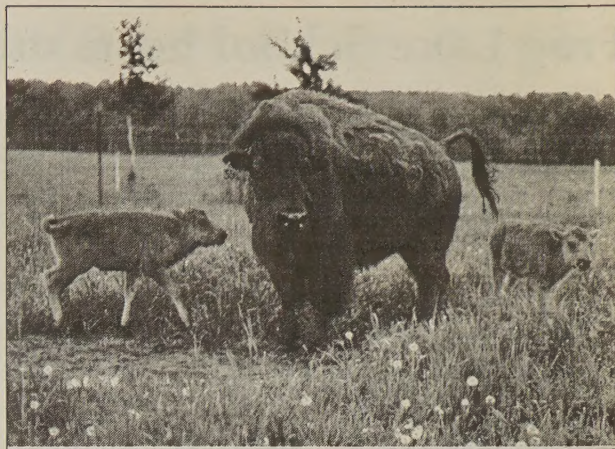

The upcoming convention will give beef farmers, and others, a good look at this attractive option for diversification. Further information on the convention can be obtained from Laurie Ference at 724-2215 or Joanne Dorey at (403) 853-2024.

PLAINS BISON BULL looks just like those who roamed the prairies before the settlers came to western North America.

RIGHT AT HOME WHERE THE BUFFALO ROAM -- Andrew Boddy proudly surveys the large herd of Plains Bison cows and calves jointly owned by him and partner Richard Ference.

IT'S TWINS! Bison ranchers Andrew Boddy and Richard Ference were delighted when one of their bison cows presented them with twin heifers this spring, an event which happens only once in approximately 2000 births.

What's news at the library?

Storytime wraps up this week with a prehistoric bash

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

This Friday, June 20, Storytime is wrapping things up for the summer with a Prehistoric Bash. The theme is dinosaurs and cavemen (cave-people?) so round up your favorite Neanderthal and stop by. We'll be cave painting, going on a hunt for dinosaur eggs and enjoying plenty of prehistoric treats. Storytime will return again in September.

It appears that summer may have finally arrived so here are a couple of books that might help you in planning your vacations:

Baseball fans might want to check out Fodor's Ballpark Vacations for everything you need to know to plan a vacation centred on minor league or classic major league ballparks across America.

Another selection from Fodor is Fodor's Exploring the Greek Islands which contains all sorts of practical information for anyone considering a trip to this wonderful location.

Anyone considering a pet and thinking about trying one of the more unusual types might want to consider the following:

The Hedgehog by Dawn Wrobel is a basic guide to the care and feeding of this very popular pet.

The Turtle by Lenny Flank, Jr. gives you the lowdown on how to care for your reptilian pet.

Just a reminder that that the library's READiscover Summer Reading Program begins July 3. We are still accepting registrations. For the low cost of one dollar your child can enjoy a summer of exploring the fascinating world of science through stories, activities, games, crafts and (possibly) food. To get you in the mood for the program, here are a few new juvenile science titles:

Photography by Kathryn Senior is a child's introduction to cameras and the art of photography complete with instructions on how to process and develop your own photographs.

Green Fun: Plants as Play by Marianne Haug Gjersvik contains several ideas for turning nature's own materials into interesting recreations.

Fabulous Paper Airplanes by E. Richard Churchill contains instructions for 29 versions of the children's classic paper toy.

Friday afternoons this summer, starting July 4, the library will again be showing movies. In keeping with the science theme of the summer reading program, all movies will be science related. The line-up isn't quite final yet but stay tuned to future columns for details.
